The next move in the defense of Carson, who today said he was feeling waker after two days on rye bread and water is expected to be a habeas corpus action by J. H. Chatt, Bancroft farmer and brother of County Judge Chatt, who imposed the sentence, and his attorney, forcing county authorities to give Carson regular food or release him from custody.

Dr. Isaiah Lukens, who examined Carson two days ago, said he cannot stand the diet and that the sentence is "murderous and cruel."

bread and water diet for liquor violators is "cruel and unusual punishment," and its enforcement is "by persons who are so bigoted they cannot differentiate between the various grades of offenses," Clarence S. Darrow said today.

"Such a practice." he said, "is out of force in every civilized country in the world. Evidently Judge Chatt believes that taking a drink is the gravest offense that can be committed."

Mr. Darrow said that if he were connected with the cases he would appeal to the United States District court.

County Attorney Rhodes and Chatt had a sharp interchange of words over Chatt's legal steps today.

"But you know it's wrong," Chatt remonstrated.

"Of course it's wrong, but it's the law and must be enforced," Rhodes replied. "There are a lot of damn fool laws." Rhodes said he would have Carson examined, probably tomorrow, so that Chatt could not accuse him of negligence.

Sir: I am a Posey. Gen. George Washington was my great-great-grandfather. I am 71 years of age and recalling from the mists of time what I heard, what I know, and what I surmise, I can tell you the whole story. Elizabeth Lloyd, about 15, of the old dominion of Virginia—rich, aristocratic—the lowland beauty. George Washington, about 16, beginning his career as a civil engineer, proposed marriage, was peremptorily refused; they were also let out and any one can imagine the home, and any one can imagine the home, and any one can imagine the worry at home.

Around ten o'clock in the evening an alderman came to the station, and on his word the young fellows were let out, leaving the two old men down below. However, on the way out, one of the young fellows were let out, leaving the two old men down below. However, on the way out, one of the young fellows were let out, leaving the two old men down below. However, on the way out, one of the young fellows were let out, leaving the two old men down below. However, on the way out, one of the young fellows were let out, leaving the two old men perfect your argument? If so, why try to persuade the alderman to do something for the two old men, perfect your way of thinking? If nature and circumstances are master. Those have no choice in the matter, since nature and circumstances are master. Those have no choice in the worry at home.

Around ten o'clock in the evening an alderman came to the station, and on his word the young fellows were let out.

Can any one explain why the policemen could not differentiate between two old men, perfect your way of thinking? If nature and circumstances are master. Those have no choice in the matter, since nature and circumstances are master. These have no choice in the world and erroumstances are maste drunkard, the thief, and the murderer. SUPPORTERS OF BRENNAN CARRY

ON HIS CAMPAIGN

George E. Brennan, Democratic nominee for United States senator, who was injured in a fall at Nokomis, Ill., Tuesday, spent a restful day at St. Joseph's hospital yesterd, according to reports from his bedside. Further K-ray examinations reveal no fracture although his right knee was painfully wrenched and is still badly inflamed. Attendants were unable to estimate on the probable length of time Mr. Brennan will be laid up. It will be several days before that can be determined.

There is practically no hope that Mr. Brennan will be able to attend the big Democratic picnic at the Beverly Hills forest preserve next Sunday. Plans

Postum Cereal Company's Corn Flakes

Post Toasties are Double-Crisp and Double-Good because they're Double-Thick

Post Toasties are corn flakes as made by Postum Cereal Company, largest producers of health foods in the world.

Try them and know the luxury of oven-fresh corn flakes, corn flakes that are Double-Crisp and Double-Good because they're Double-Thick!

Only the hearts of carefully selected white corn are employed in making Post Toasties. These delicious corn hearts are flaked Double-Thick, then toasted in great ovens to crackling crispness.

Flavor! You never knew such delicious corn flakes existed. Crispness! To the last flake at the bottom of the bowl.

Make our Milk or Cream Test Yourself

The Milk or Cream Test is the correct way to judge corn flakes for flavor and crispness. Get a package of Post Toasties at your grocer's and shower some of the golden, crisp flakes into a bowl. Now add milk or cream, as you prefer, and eat them slowly, critically. Each Double-Thick flake is fairly packed with the natural flavor of the corn. And each flake stays crisp and crunchy, even in milk or cream.

To be sure you get genuine Post Toasties, Double-Thick Corn Flakes, always ask for Post Toasties by name and look for the red and yellow, waxwrapped package. It wears the Post Health Products seal. We will be glad to send you a free test package on request.

Reports that the Canadian pool had sold wheat futures here were freely circulated yesterday. Winnipog people in a position to know wired that there was no truth in the reports and that the pool had not sold futures here for a month.

Opposition is developing to the proposed elevator plan which is to be presented to the illinois commerce commission at its meeting next week. As some interests see it, the board of trade has no right to be involved even indirectly with such a proposal. Those in favor of the proposition express the belief that eventually it will work out all right without involving the exchange in any way.

TOCK TRANSACTIONS

We have made a study of the Ward Baking Corporation with special reference to its 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock, and recommend it as a desirable investment based upon the following:

The Company's main product is our most essential food. The baking industry is a stable one, not subject to the usual cycles of prosperity and depression.

The Company's growth has been substantial and consistent. Indications are 1926 will be the most prosperous year to date. The Company has under construction three new plants and additions to three of its existing plants, all of which should be in operation within the next few months.

The present market price is around $93 a share, to yield over 7.50%. The low price on the New York Stock Exchange for 1925 and 1926 has been 90 and the high 112. Purchasers of this stock prior to September 15th are entitled to the regular dividend of 1%% payable October 1st.

Our investigation leads us to believe the Company's future is unusually promising—that the 7% Preferred Stock is a sound investment, selling below its intrinsic value. We have prepared a memorandum giving more complete details which we shall be glad to mail upon request. We are in position to supply this Stock at the market.

of these new waist lines. Whereas many of the designers pose this line at its accustomed place right at the top of the hips, others have joined enthusiastically the "back to nature" movement among waists.

It is interesting to note that when the natural waist line does occur it is usually in the society of a glightly bloused corsage and a fitted hip line. Althougher, these three details give us a new impression of the autumn silhouette. It's really more change than we are accustomed to.

Today's sperts model combining placky beige and navy crèpe presents this new silhouette for your inspection. It presents it, toe, with the added feature of style imposed by this combination of color—one that is exceedingly smart. A second detail which one is sure to notice is the use of hands. Such trimmings turn up on every hand and often the summer fashion of alternating colors in your band groups is sustained in the winter collections. Thus this present model composes its wide girdle of alternating bands of navy and pinky biege. The girdle 's placed between a plaited navy skirt and a beige corsage trimmed in blue.

The Great God Line Can Make a Woman Look Lovely or Ugly

Every woman wants to appear as though she had a good figure whether she has it or not. That is why so many of them haunt the premises of the expert designer who knows to the shape of a pocket what is going to make or reduce an inch bulge.

Designers in clothes who have this art of using lines to hide a crowded silhouette a short, wide figure, or a large fat figure, aim at a perfect combination of shape of dress, material and ornament. Consequently they can give the observer an impression of hips that balance the bust, both looking narrower in proportion to the height, an impression of shortness of the body graceful length in the leg, a flat back, and a well balanced head on a neck not too short or too short or too long.

It is true that only a skilled designer can accomplish this with superlative success. But the average woman who cannot afford a high priced designer certainly could be a lot kinder to her figure if she chose her clothes with re gard to line. There is no point in hoosing clothes carelessly without regard to line if they ruthlessly accento such an extent that she is dis couraged with her bad figure. There are a few points of importance to line dress which, if kept in mind, will help make a figure look slimmer. nater and more graceful.
